ABRIDGED PBS KVIE

Your source for local news

Ryan Lillis
Associate General Manager,
News

At KVIE, a part of our mission is to inspire you to connect with your community. A new addition to our news team is going to help drive those connections.

Brianna Taylor joined our Abridged by PBS KVIE news team in February as an audience engagement reporter. You may recognize her byline, as she's covered health and wellness for Abridged since our launch in September. Her stories have covered a wide range of topics, including food insecurity, the benefits of walking, tips for battling seasonal depression and how to find the best therapist in the Sacramento region.

Taylor brings her thoughtful reporting and deep passion for local journalism to this new role, in which she'll build meaningful connections with our neighbors and bring that feedback to her fellow journalists.

"I'm thrilled to bridge the gap between you and our newsroom, so your curiosities are reflected in our coverage," Taylor says. "That means meeting you where you are to hear how we can help you live your best life."

You'll see her out and about in local coffee shops, breweries and other common spaces to meet and get to know you. She'll also be inviting you into our newsroom world — raising the curtain so you can see just how we do our reporting every day. Through her work, she'll position Abridged as a community convener and contributor to the Sacramento region's social wellbeing.

"We all deserve to feel seen," Taylor says.

Taylor will serve as our lead journalist for hosting and facilitating in-person and virtual engagement events, including listening sessions and live Q&As. You'll keep seeing her byline, too, as she reports stories based on the questions you have for her and the rest of our reporting team.

Taylor moved to the Sacramento region in 2022 and spent three years at The Sacramento Bee. Before that, she reported in Maryland and Missouri.

At Abridged, our journalism is guided by real community needs and questions. If you have one, please reach out to Brianna at btaylor@kvie.org.

Lucy Worsley Investigates: The American Revolution

April 7 & 14 at 9PM

Join Lucy Worsley as she seeks to understand why the British Empire lost the War of Independence against a ragtag band of American rebels. It's a question that will take her on a revelatory journey. Worsley tells this American story from the perspective of Britain, and by interrogating this largely untold standpoint of the conflict, she reveals that this wasn't just a pivotal moment for the USA — it was pivotal in the re-making of Britain too.

Henry David Thoreau

March 30 at 9PM & 10PM,
 March 31 at 9PM

Discover how Henry David Thoreau, author of "Walden" and "Civil Disobedience," helped define modern environmentalism and nonviolent resistance. See how a young Thoreau pursued a career as an author while the nation struggled with its ideals and industry reshaped the land. Follow him as he retreats to Walden Pond and finds solace in the wild, and chronicle his experiments as a surveyor, scientist, and abolitionist.

A Commitment to PBS KVIE, Now and for the Future

For many of us, PBS KVIE has been a constant presence in our lives. A trusted source of learning, culture, and thoughtful programming, year after year.

That commitment continues today.

PBS KVIE serves our region with educational programming, local storytelling, and trusted journalism designed to inform and reflect our community. The platforms have evolved, but the purpose has stayed the same: public media that serves the public good.

Some longtime supporters choose to express that trust by becoming members of the PBS KVIE Legacy Circle. Legacy Circle members are people who have chosen to include PBS KVIE in their long-term plans, alongside caring for family and loved ones.

The Legacy Circle is simply a way to recognize those who believe in the enduring importance of public media and want to help ensure it remains strong for future generations.
